

KEEPING OUR KEYWORKERS SAFE AT WORK

WEEKLY DISINFECTING

Precautionary disinfections (aka fogging) can be carried out by trained specialists using chemicals that kill up to 99.99% of a range of pathogens

WASHING FACILITIES

Disposable gloves, hand sanitiser or transportable sinks – add whatever is needed to ensure workers are able to access cleansing facilities throughout their shifts

HEALTH CHECKS AND EDUCATION

Checking the temperature of workers on arrival to work and being aware of any symptoms of Covid-19 to look out for

AVOID MEETINGS

Conduct daily catch-ups or briefings through emails or video messages, to save everyone gathering in one space.

SOCIAL DISTANCING

Not just in the canteen but in the locker rooms, assembly lines, aisles, bathrooms, queues and transport

STOP SHARING

Put a stop to workers sharing equipment, lockers, coat pegs, anything. If they have to share something – change it so only one of them works with it/there.

ONE-WAY ROUTES

Create a one-way route through the workspaces to prevent close proximity passing

ADDITIONAL SIGNAGE

Consider how easy it is for people to forget and put up new health and safety signs to remind workers of new, key rules

REMOVE UNNECESSARY CLUTTER

Don't leave unneeded items lying around to collect germs and take up space

CHANGE SHIFT PATTERNS

Introduce 30 minute gaps between shifts to allow employees to leave before new ones arrive. Consider giving the cleaners additional hours to make up for their increased workload
